Integration of Faith, Life and Learning
What types of programs have you either started or are planning to start?
Duane Litfin – Conceiving the Christian College

“genuinely Christian thinking requires depth on both sides of the ledger.”
“There is no more critical spiritual concern for Christian college leaders than the nature of knowledge and its implications in every discipline.”
What practices have you instituted to develop your faculty members’ skills in biblical integration?
Hiring is KEY – who you hire (faith, character, worldview) is who will teach your students.
Provide training in biblical integration, starting with theological education

Jacob Shatzer, Faithful Learning: A Vision for Theologically Integrated Education

Jen Wilkin and J.T. English, You Are a Theologian: An Invitation to Know and Love God Well
Add development in Christian worldview

David S. Dockery, Renewing Minds: Serving Church and Society Through Christian Higher Education

Provide discipline-specific support
Give instruction in Christian teaching

David I. Smith, On Christian Teaching: Practicing Faith in the Classroom

Require that faculty grapple with biblical integration specific to their discipline

- Integration workshop as part of New Faculty Orientation
- Second workshop at the end of year-one
- Paper review at the end of year two
- Final paper review at the end of year four
Framework for a biblical integration paper

• Truth and Knowledge (epistemology)
• Knowledge and the Christian Faith
• Discipline specific Integration
• The Practice of Integration in the Classroom
• Christ-animated teaching
How do you engage your faculty in the practice of biblical integration?
