Framing a Biblical Worldview in a Post-Christian Culture

Overview: Our worldview, the lens through which we see the world, is a vital framework for discipleship and teaching in the academy. This is especially true given the major shifts in worldview with the emerging generation. Join with a veteran administrator who's a passionate ambassador for discipleship and explore the foundations of a biblical worldview in contrast with the current dominant worldview of our culture.

8:00 – 8:15 Welcome & Introductions

8:15 – 9:30 Session 1: From Christendom to Post-Christianity: Where Are We Now?

We begin with understanding the cultural moment and how framing an accurate biblical worldview must start with a grasp of the current cultural moment and how we got here. This must start with an earlier era of Christendom and the flow of worldview factors to our current post-Christian culture. Let's trace the cultural shift over the past 20 years from a Christian-influenced society to a post-Christian one with cultural diagnostics to help define a post-Christian culture.

- Review biblical worldview vs dominant cultural narratives
- Examine how assumptions about human flourishing have changed
- Explore the implications for Christian higher education – how shifts affect your students
